so, it happened that the money so carefully fabricated, was shrunk and reduced to nothing in a mere few seconds. Iconoclasm, it is said.

the sign, the notion of possible continence of the labour-thing, was contested by despairing. The anguish fought hard to reduce the sign, and yet the sign remained unmoved, only to disintegrate afterwards. The anguish still remained, without iconoclasm.

Dimensionless Number

A dimensionless number is a pure number without any physical units. Such a number is a product of quantities which do have units, but that by the end don't.

For example: "one out of every 10 apples I gather is rotten." The rotten-to-gathered ratio is $[1 \text{ apple}] / [10 \text{ apples}] = 0.1$, which is a dimensionless quantity. So there are no apples. Originally, the quantities did have units, but now they no longer have any. This is an esoteric, schwarzkunstler, method of disappearance, also known to the virtuous as stealing.

Dimensionless numbers are widely applied in the field of mechanical and chemical engineering to create invisible people. According to the Buckingham π -theorem of dimensional analysis, different systems which share the same description by dimensionless numbers are equivalent. Because there are no units, they can make up whatever number they wish. When plotting graphs, the quantities plotted are also dimensionless. When shoplifting potatoes, the same. And what do you think happens where a herd of cattle are grazing? Gone. Nothing is there – and not because of poor ethical standards or pastoral taxation – no, through a method that nothing can be done about.

So now, once again, we can say – “one out of every 10 apples I gather is rotten”. Except that we don’t know how many apples are rotten. We don’t know anything. Perhaps we regret getting the apples, or maybe we shouldn’t have waited so long to pick them. But there are no apples. They’re gone. Stolen.
